

Seniors Elect Outstanding Students

12 Students Selected As Leaders Of Class

Twelve members of the senior class have been chosen as outstanding students. Leadership, scholarship, and citizenship were the attributes on which these students were selected by their classmates.

The students are Claudia Bailey, Martha Engel, Oma Gifford, Carole Gorry, Peggy Hedly, Sally Ann Mahaney, Carol Ohl, Nancy Spady, Pat Steele, Shirley Thaxton, Marty Walker, and Janet Wood.

Miss Bailey, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Bailey of Baltimore, Maryland, is the Editor of the Bluestone. Majoring in Biology her activities include membership in Sigma Phi Lambda and Kappa Delta Pi honor societies, Zeta Tau Alpha Social Fraternity, and the Fencing Club.

Martha Engel

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Engel of Portsmouth, Virginia, Miss Engel is enrolled in Elementary Education and concentrating in Library Science. She is presently President of the Honor Council, a member of Sigma Sigma Social Sorority, and Alpha Beta Alpha Library Science Society.

Miss Gifford, a Physical Education major, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Gifford of Falls Church, Virginia. Her campus activities include Secretary of the Student Government Association, and membership in Kappa Delta Pi honor society and President of Zeta Tau Alpha Social Fraternity.

A History and Social Science major, Miss Gorry is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Gorry of Falls Church, Virginia. She is

Two Honor Societies Select 37 Students For Membership

Kappa Delta Pi, National Honorary Society in Education, and Pi Omega Pi, National Honorary Society in Business, tapped 37 students for membership at the Wednesday, October 30 assembly.

Tapped for Kappa Delta Pi were Andy Berkley, Donna Blair, Ruth Carey, Kay Carns, Mrs. Betty Coyle, Jr., Milton G. Coyle, Jr., Elizabeth Foresman, Nancy Jo Harcum, Jonne Heatwole, Mary Johnson, Anne Klein, Sharon Leinart, Linda Lynn, Patricia Lynn, Brenda McClain, Susan Parrish, Joan Perry, Janyce Mae Pfoutz, and Barbara Raley.

Kappa Delta Pi also tapped Mary Claire Rankin, Josephine Roberta Saunders, Rebecca Scruggs, Patricia Shands, Mary Landon Smith, Tanya Suarez, Margaret Taylor, Ora Lee Tolson, Ellen Wade, Patricia Sandra Waters, Nancy Will, Carol Wootton, and Mrs. Judy Sharpe Young.

Pi Omega Pi tapped Joyce Cooke, Linda Garletts, Faye Hoover, Ann Sorrels, and Mrs. Elizabeth Swecker.

Seniors Hold Last Class Day

Seniors will celebrate their last Madison class day on November 8 with the traditional class-day privileges of cutting campus, having a banquet, and decorating Harrison Hall.

Breaking class tradition, the Class of '63 will not present their entertainment at a noon assembly. Instead the entertainers, the vocal duet of Brown and Dana, will perform for the student body at a two-hour program in the evening—thus eliminating the traditional class night production.

During intermission at the evening program, the names of the students selected for Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities and the class mirror will be announced. This announcement of the students selected for Who's Who at the program is in itself a breaking of Madison tradition.

After the program, the seniors will have a class party in Kezell Gym with the Top Hats providing the music. The entertainers, Brown and Dana, will be at this party, restricted to members of the senior class and their dates.

Those seniors who have been in charge of organizing class day are Shirley Thaxton, entertainment; Sandy Floyd, party; Kaye Pierce, class mirror; Margaret Wells, program; Lois Jean Phillips, Harrison Hall decorations; Bobbie Prince, banquet; and Joyce Rollins, place cards for the banquet.

Other committee chairmen and their committees are Joyce Waddell, seating arrangement at the banquet; Linda Bibb, invitations; Becky Smith, name tags; Liz Hudgins, ushers; Mary Evelyn Smith, stage; and Janet Wood, flowers.

The chairmen have been directed by the class officers: Janet Wood, Shirley Thaxton, Carole Twomey, Sue Harrell, Molin Blaylock, Margaret Wells.

Any students interested in taking a trip to Bermuda March 26-April 1 should see Mrs. Dorothy S. Garber, Dean of Women, as soon as possible. The cost of the trip will be $190 and the trip will be supervised by a Madison faculty member.

Le Cercle Francais To Present Play On Man Who Marries 'Dumb Woman'

Le Cercle Francais, the French Club of Madison College will present the play, "De Celui Qui Epousa Une Femme Muette," on Wednesday, November 6 at the noon assembly.

The play, written by Antolles France, is the first major production of the French Club in seven years. It was suggested that the club give the play last year but production did not take place until this fall.

There are seven main characters under the direction of Carolyn Rose. Most of the seven actors have had no previous experience. Dale Sosenhein will be the leading actress of the entire female cast as Mr. Leonard, the judge; Francoise Thuillier will portray Catherine, the judge's wife; Carol Bobo as Maitre Adam, the lawyer; Sharon Leinart as Dr. Simon; Nancy Catlett as Maitre Jean, the barber; Charlene Steele as Gilles, the secretary; and Joan Perry as Alizon, the maid.

Suzanne Robinson is in charge of props and costumes. The costumes are of 17th Century French design.

The translation of the title of the play is "A Man Who Marries a Dumb Woman." Mr. Leonard wishes for his wife to speak. He arranges for Catherine to have an operation. The operation is a success and Catherine will not stop talking. He has a doctor make him deaf so he won't hear his wife. The point of the play is "leave well-enough alone."

The play which will be presented in the French language can be interpreted by all students with the help of a synopsis-program and the use of physical expression of the actors.

Criterion Contest

Lester Gets Prize For Best Reading

Rebecca Lester, senior, won first place in the 1963 Criterion Club Reading Contest held Tuesday, October 29.

Miss Lester read from T. S. Eliot's POETRY OF A LADY. The second place winner, Judith Tressel, read from A CHILD'S CHRISTMAS IN WALES by Dylan Thomas. Grace Cosby, reading four poems by Gerard Manly Hopkins, placed third.

The three winners received paper back books as prizes. The three judges from the English Department were Mr. Frank Day, Dr. Mary Latimer, and Dr. Louis G. Locke.

Other participants in the contest and the works they read are as follows: Carolyn Rose, "Fish" by D. H. Lawrence; Barbara Reeves, reading from JOHN BROWN'S BODY by Stephen Vincent Benet; Mary Barnes, Story by Michael Foster; Marcia Shuttleworth, excerpt from "Pygmalion" by George Bernard Shaw; Dale Sosenhein, reading from Maxwell Anderson's ANN OF A THOUSAND DAYS; and Joe Flurey, selection from WALDEN by Henry David Thoreau.

The Criterion Club is now accepting student articles for the annual Writing Contest and will accept them until Tuesday, November 19. A manuscript chosen from the student contributions will be published monthly in THE BREEZE. The articles will also (Continued on Page 4)

The vocal duet of Brown and Dana

Brown-Dana Vocal Duet To Entertain For Senior Class Day, November 8

Brown and Dana, vocal duet, will appear as entertainers for the Senior Class Day program, Wilson Auditorium, November 8 at 8:00 p.m.

Garrett Brown, from Philadelphia, and Al Dana, from Old Lyme, Connecticut, met while attending Tufts College near Boston. Finding they had a mutual interest in music, the two boys left college and started on their musical career.

They have appeared at college and university concerts throughout the country and have played in such clubs as The Bitter End in

New York, The Second Fret in Philadelphia, The Cafe Rouge in Quebec, and The Golden Vanity in Boston. In September of 1963 Brown and Dana were featured at the Goya Folk Festival in Grosinger, New York where they did a satire on the McClellan Senate Rackets Committee.

Their shows include folksongs, ballads, and their own compositions. The two arrange all the material that they use. They also do satirical skits.

Brown and Dana have recorded one L.P. for MGM. The album is entitled "It Was A Very Good Year."

We Encourage 'Class Spirit' But We Discourage Vandalism

Fun is fun, but any form of vandalism or violence deserves nothing but contempt!

Class spirit has been raging at Madison this past week in the forms of unnecessary destructiveness, roughness, and boisterousness. It has exceeded the limits of tolerance.

The freshman class had its banner stolen by some sophomores earlier in the week. This act precipitated a series of "raids", by sophomores and freshmen alike on the various dormitories on campus, ending in broken watches, bruised bodies (and egos), and lost sleeping and studying hours.

Class spirit is indeed something to be praised, providing it is not carried too far. But the assembling of mobs and the badgering of rival classes is not the kind of behavior that is to be expected of mature college students. In fact, in this case the administration was forced to step in and request that the sophomores return the banner to the freshman president.

At a class meeting, however, the sophomore voted to keep the banner until Senior Class Day when they could present it to the Class of '64—in order to fulfill a tradition of their sister class which has had all four banners on each of its class days.

So it seems that the freshmen will soon have their banner returned; and since the sophomores will not cooperate and return it earlier, the freshmen might just as well stay in bed those wee hours of the morning instead of serenading upperclassmen with songs, pots and pans.

The sophomores voted to remain pacifists and not engage in any more "raids." We hope that all classes will agree to this policy.

We are not trying to discourage class loyalty because it holds a group together; nor are we accusing any one class of causing trouble. We only believe that there IS a limit to fun and play, and when people's possessions are destroyed and bodily harm is inflicted then the limit is exceeded!

'Randy-M Gents' Write Poem

From the Cross-Campus correspondence of Randolph-Macon College we read a poem (in reply to Madison's request for campus police) entitled "We'd Like To Help."

We say, young ladies, just what is your whim?
You don't want Ketner; do you want Dean Crim?
Our principles, you know, are pretty strong,
But without Dean Crim we'd surely go wrong.
So perhaps we'd best keep our Dean of Men;
To give him away would be an unpardonable sin.
But hold on a moment, you beauties so rare;
As gentlemen we must solve this dire affair.
For two cents plain, we can fix you right up;
We'll ask Dean Crim to send you a paper cup.
Paper cups, you know, are his very best friends;
They give you protection when your elbow bends.
But you're in no need of elbow protection,
So we'll turn to the matter of hearing infection:
You've been abashed at the remarks of passers-by,
Who propositioned you without even a friendly "Hi,"
We can only say we don't know what to say
But that we'll remember to at least say "Hey,"
And if that isn't enough to do the trick,
We'll readily admit we need a good kick.
For your welfare, young ladies, indeed we fear;
It might solve your problem if you all came here.
But this wouldn't work, even with good luck,
For as the little red rooster said to the little white duck,
(... you sure do need a campus cop!)

Needless to say, it is time for a truce, but we must admit all these poetics have given us a boost.

Students Protest Nurse's Conduct

October 24, 1963

Dear Editor,

Tonight was the last straw! We called the infirmary to ask if our roommate who was spending the night would need her pajamas and other essentials. The nurse who answered the phone was not only extremely rude, but hung up before we could finish our question. We understand that the nurses in the infirmary are very busy but does being busy give anyone the right to be rude when asked a civil question?

Isn't there something that can be done?

Thank you,
Bonnie Amason and Diane Amos

Jeans Are Better Than No Shoes!

Dear Editor,

On page 34 of the Madison College Student Handbook, the following is written: "It is assumed that a Madison student will, at all times and in all places, uphold high standards of conduct and appearance." When a Madison "lady" eats in Doc's with her shoes off, her legs stretched out on the seat, and the rest of her anatomy draped over the table, it makes me wonder exactly how freely the above quote can be interpreted.

The past three times I have been to Doc's, I have seen this same student in the above position wearing no shoes. While it is true that Doc's caters to college students, we are not the only people who go there. High school students, Madison students' dates, boys from A.M.A., adults, and others eat there. This type of conduct can do nothing to build a good reputation for Madison ladies. Such behavior is a reflection on the college and certainly not a good one. Shouldn't this come under Standards, just as wearing a short skirt or blue jeans? I would much rather eat in the same establishment with someone wearing blue jeans than with someone with their shoes off!

Breeze Restates Letter Policy

The views expressed on the editorial page are not necessarily those of THE BREEZE unless they appear in an editorial. All other opinions are those of the signed authors.

We welcome letters and feature articles from our readers, but we reserve the right to decide which are newsworthy. Submitted letters are subject to the following conditions:

- (1) Material must be typed and double-spaced.
- (2) Letters must be less than 300 words in length.
- (3) All material must be turned into the BREEZE room by 7:00 p.m. Tuesday in order to appear in the following Saturday issue of the paper.
- (4) All material must be signed although names will be withheld for valid reasons at the discretion of the editor-in-chief. Letters will not be printed unless legitimate justification of anonymity are presented.

(R. to L.) Stratford players Fred Eaton and Ellen Wade rehearse a scene from John Dos Passos' play "U.S.A." The play, "U.S.A.," which is to be presented at Madison, is an adaptation by John Dos Passos of his novel by the same name.

"U.S.A." is not rightly a play, but a dramatic revue. It traces the growth of America from the beginning of the 20th Century through World War I to the brink of the 1929 depression. Viewed as a collage, the action depicts lives and incidents, both great and small, which have framed our nation.

Performances will be presented in Wilson Auditorium, November 14, 15, and 16 at 8:00 p.m.

Dedicated To The Juniors...

Class of '65 forever firm together stand;

On October 30, we had only thirty in our band;

As we saluted our sister class, wishing them a Happy Halloween;

We had about 370 juniors who didn't make the scene.

There is something we must do, and the action must be fast;

We've got to get our class together and show spirit that will last!

Madison Chapter Completes Society's Major Assignment

The Madison Chapter of Phi Beta Lambda National Business Society was the first chapter in the state to successfully complete one of the society's major projects.

Each chapter in Virginia was to organize a new chapter at a college that did not have one. Madison completed the project by organizing a chapter and installing officers at Shenandoah College, Winchester, October 23.

Madison Employs Closed-Circuit TV For Second Year

Closed-circuit television as a teaching device which was begun at Madison last year is being used again this year for a limited number of science classes.

According to Dr. John C. Wells, professor of physics, television is used for two mass lectures a week in physical science. Last year, it was used in biology classes as well as in physical science classes.

Since the mass lectures resulting from the use of closed-circuit television involve a great number of students meeting twice a week, there is more time for the students to spend in laboratory study.

Three professors, Dr. John C. Wells, Dr. Paul McCorkle, and Mrs. Emma Sue Amos, lecture over the closed-circuit television. This team-teaching approach gives students an opportunity to hear lectures from more than one professor in the field of physical science.

The lectures are broadcast from Burruss Hall into several classrooms in the building. There is a talk-back system so that students watching may ask questions during the lectures.

At the present time, steps are being taken to improve the equipment and organization of the television method. Drawbacks in the past resulted from inexperience with this type of education.

The next step for closed-circuit television is its installation in the Anthony-Seeger Campus School. Once installed, psychology and education students may do observations from class rooms here at the college. The system will also be included in the Fine Arts Building, and it is hoped that lines may be run between all the buildings on campus in the future.

At the noon assembly in Wilson Auditorium, October 31, Emily Reid, president of Kappa Delta Pi, presented Andy Berkely with a letter of invitation to join the national honorary society in education. Thirty-two students who were juniors or seniors were asked to become members of Kappa Delta Pi. They were merited because of their high scholarship and outstanding work in education. Pi Omega Pi, national honorary fraternity in business, tapped five students to join the society.

37 Become New Members Of Campus French Club

Thirty-seven students became members of the Madison French Club, Le Cercle Francais on Wednesday, October 9.

Team A Leads In Football

by Floyd Freeze

Only one football game was played last week. In this important contest, Team A defeated Team C by the score of 21-20. The win wrapped up the Intramural Football Championship for Team A.

Team A has only one game left to play and is 2½ games ahead of its closest rival, Team C.

Team B has two remaining games in which to post a mark on the win column of the ledger. If B could win both its remaining games, it could occupy Second Place at the end of the season.

Team standings as of Tuesday, November 29:

Team	Won	Lost	Tied	G.	Behind
A	4	0	1	—
C	2	3	0	2½
B	0	3	1	3½

Volleyball intramurals will begin Tuesday, November 5 and will be played each Tuesday evening from 7:00-8:00 p.m. and each Thursday afternoon from 3:30-4:30 p.m. in Keezell Gym.

Interested students should sign up with their WAA dorm representatives.

MC 'Master Cult' Celebrates Founders Day On Halloween

The physical education majors of Madison displayed a great deal of group spirit on Halloween Day.

It seems that they declared October 31 to be the first annual Founder's Day for the Madison College Chapter of the "Master Cult"—i.e., the P. E. majors.

Decked out in all white, wearing name tags with "M. C." on them, bowing three times in front of Keezell Hall, and carrying an implement representative of the field of physical education (such as hockey sticks, tennis rackets, and whistles around the neck), the majors celebrated the big day.

At each physical education class the majors sang songs written for the founder's day. One, sung to the tune of "Boom de ada", went like this:

"We love the MC's, we love the Master Cult,
We love the faculty, even when they're difficult,
We love activity, even if it's eight o'clock,
Boom de ada, boom de ada, boom de ada, boom de ada.
We love aquatic sports, even when the water's cold,
We'll always run our laps, even if we're near collapse,
We'll play our tennis game, even if it's in the rain,
Boom de ada, boom de ada, boom de ada, boom de ada."

We'll do our run-run-leap, even if it kills our feet,
Basketball is such a chore, running up and down the floor,
We'll never scream and pout, even if we should strike out,
Boom de ada, boom de ada, boom de ada, boom de ada.
We've had anatomy, or did anatomy have me,
Principle's a lot of work, enough to drive us all beserk,
Then we met our Waterloo, kinesiology to you,
BOOM!!!!

Another song was:
"We can tell by your outfit that you are a major,
You can tell by our outfit that we're majors too,
You can tell by our outfit that we're all majors,
So get yourself an outfit and be a major too!"

On Halloween night the senior majors visited the homes of the physical education teachers. All in all it was a very successful celebration.

MC Defeats Mary Baldwin

The Madison Hockey Team won its fifth game of the season when they defeated Mary Baldwin College, October 28 by a score of 3-0.

Goals were scored by Elma Fromm, Gail Christensen, and Jackie Stacks.

The second team defeated the Mary Baldwin second team by a score of 9-0. Sharon Gaunt, Sylvia Ottaway, Margaret Nolan, Eleanor Bradley, Suzanne Wingate, and Sallie McClanahan were scorers.

Both teams of Madison still have an undefeated record. The final game of the season will be played against Bridgewater, back campus, November 2, at 2:00 p.m.

Orchesis Club Chooses Five Modern Dancers

Five Madison girls were chosen this semester for membership in Orchesis, the modern dance club on campus. The girls are Kay Booth, Brenda Bowman, Sue Fransen, Nancy Muth, and Kay Compton.

The purpose of Orchesis is to develop the skills of approximately twenty members. Each year Orchesis presents its talents to the student body either during a special assembly, the Christmas Assembly, or during the Fine Arts Festival which is held the first week of May.
